

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A method for extracting a constant part and a variable part from a data signal that is determined. The values that are extracted in this way are transmitted with different timing over a transmission link that is present. Depending on the bandwidth of the composite signal, various methods can be applied for transmitting relatively low bandwidth signals with possibly higher resolution.

DRAFT - PROVISIONAL

REL/tk